ABSTRACT

This study deals with the relationship between consciousness and creative writing , and tackles consciousness and its various manifestations in the writings of Elias Farkouh. It attempts to grasp the connection between consciousness and writing , and the intersection of the outlook outside and inside creative writing with that of creative writing by studying Farkouh's productions in the short story narrative , the cultural essays , the creative testimonials and the dialogues , focussing on the novel of Elias Farkouh , being an amalgamation of his texts and the most expressive representation of his creative experience .

The study deals with an Introduction to the resources of Farkouh's consciousness: defining the concept of consciousness awareness , whereas Chapter One discusses his experimentation with narrative writing , and ascertaining the most outstanding stylistic features, with an analysis of some of his stories which serve the purpose of the study.

Chapter Two discusses the writing consciousness; spotting the connection between art reality ; the intersection of the political with the cultural and with the narrative awareness ; the concept of writing , literary genre , language , the short story narrative , the novel and poetry . It tries to explain what these words represent in Farkouh's culture depending on his creative testimonials , dialogues and cultural essays.

As for Chapter Three , it tackles Farkouh's experience in the writing of the novel : analyzing two of his novels , namely : (qamaatul – Zabad and A'3midatul – ghubaar) linking the analysis with the results of what has been reached in Chapter Two about Farkouh's understanding of writing in its various forms and aspects .
